The 3rd International Conference
«EAST AND WEST AT THE STAGE OF NEW TRANSFORMATIONS: THE POST-COVID CHANGES»

November 17th – 18th, 2021
Moscow, Russian Federation

The COVID-19 pandemic significantly transformed the development of the world and its regions. Western and Eastern countries reacted differently to the pandemic. While in the West the collapse of the institutions of the welfare state was evident, the measures taken in most Eastern countries were timely and effective, and, most importantly, adequate to the seriousness of the threat. The consequences will affect the internal political and economic development of different countries, as well the scale and depth of cooperation at the regional and transregional levels, the essence of global processes, transforming the phenomenon of globalization.

The conference aims to analyze the main changes that have taken place since the beginning of the COVID-19 pandemic, as well as its aftereffects for the future development of various countries, regions and the world.
